

FIX MAY 29 AS CONVENTION DAY

For Kentucky Democrats
To Select Delegates

TO THE BALTIMORE MEETING

County Mass Conventions To Be Held on Saturday,
May 25th.

FULL TEXT OF RESOLUTION

Louisville gets the Democratic State convention, to select delegates to the national convention at Baltimore.

The State convention will be held on Wednesday, May 29.

The delegates to the State convention will be selected as follows:

In all counties excepting those containing first and second-class cities, mass county conventions will be held on May 25.

In counties containing first-class cities, precinct mass convention will be held on May 25, to select delegates to a county mass convention on May 27, which in turn will select the delegates to the State convention.

The counties affected by the precinct meetings are: Jefferson (Louisville), Kenton (Covington), Campbell (Newport), Fayette (Lexington) and McCracken (Paducah).

The basis of representation of each county to the State convention is one delegate for each 200 votes and fraction cast for W. J. Bryan in 1908. The new county of McCreary is given one vote.

The resolution fixing precinct meetings in the counties having the large cities received every vote but one, that of W. P. McDonogh, the member from the Fifth district, who protested that it was unfair. He emphasized the objections previously made by Mayor Head to discriminating against Louisville.

Mr. McDonogh, of Louisville, offered a resolution exactly worded like the one adopted by the committee for the last State convention, calling a State convention in June and providing that the delegates be selected at mass county conventions in every county. The McDonogh resolution was voted down by the same vote the Lawrence resolution carried.

Text of Resolution.
The Lawrence resolution, in full, follows:

"Be it resolved, That a delegate convention be held in the city of Louisville on Wednesday, the 29th day of May, 1912, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the National Convention to be held in Baltimore, Maryland, on June 25, 1912, and in order that said delegates may represent as nearly as possible the will of the people,

"Be it further resolved: That said delegates be selected as follows: In all counties in which there is a city of the first or second-class, the Democrats of said counties shall meet in their respective voting precincts on Saturday, the 25th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m., and at such a meeting shall select one representative Democrat, resident of such precinct, as its delegate to a county convention; and the Democrats so selected at these precinct meetings shall meet at the county seat on Monday, the 27th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of selecting the delegates to represent their county at the State convention. The precinct mass meeting shall be called to order by the member of the Democratic County Executive Committee for said precinct, and in the event such precinct committeeman fails to attend the mass meeting, then the Democrats shall select one of their own number who shall preside as chairman until a temporary organization is perfected. When a vacancy for the office of precinct committeeman exists in any precinct, the chairman of the County Committee shall designate in writing a Democrat, resident of such precinct, to call said precinct meeting to order and to preside until a temporary officer is selected. After the meeting is called to order by the chairman, a secretary shall be selected by the assembled Democrats, and he and the chairman shall sign a certificate, in substance as follows, which shall be the credentials to the county convention of the Democrat chosen at such meeting to represent said precinct: "At a meeting of the Democrats of—precinct,—(here insert name of Democrat chosen to represent the precinct), was by a majority of the Democrats assembled, chosen to represent the Democracy of this precinct in the county convention.

(Signed) _____ Chairman.
_____ Secretary."

"The county convention shall be called to order by the chairman of the Legislative District Committee in which the county seat is situated, except that in counties containing cities of the first-class the county convention shall be called to order by the chairman of the City and County Executive Committee, and the delegates thereto shall organize by electing a secretary and shall thereupon proceed to select the number of delegates to the State convention to which the county is entitled. The list of delegates so selected shall be certified by the chairman and secretary to the State convention, and the delegates possessing these credentials shall participate in the temporary organization of the convention.

"In all other counties the Democrats thereof shall assemble at the county seat on Saturday, May 25, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of selecting the delegates to the said State Convention to which their respective counties are entitled. Provided, that the counties having more than one legislative district and not containing a city of the first or second-class, there shall be held separate mass conventions in each of said legislative districts to select delegates as herein provided; the legislative district chairman in such cases to designate the place for holding said conventions, at least three weeks prior thereto and to preside until a temporary presiding officer is selected. Such mass meetings shall be called to order by the chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee for said county, who shall preside until a temporary organization is perfected. A secretary shall thereupon be elected by the assembled Democrats, and after the mass meeting has selected the names of those who are to represent said county in said State convention, a list thereof shall be certified by the chairman and secretary to the State convention, and those possessing such credentials shall be entitled to participate in the temporary organization of the State convention.

The representation of each county in said State convention shall be one delegate for each 200 votes or fractional part thereof over 100 cast in said county for the Democratic ticket at the last Presidential election.

"The State convention is to be called to order at 12 o'clock noon and the different congressional district conventions to be called to order at 10 o'clock a. m. The county of McCreary is to be allowed one delegate in the State convention, and the precinct committeeman of the Pine Knot precinct shall preside and act as chairman of the county convention of said county to be held at Pine Knot."

100 YEARS OLD; IN GOOD HEALTH

Is William Green, Sr., of Vincennes, Ind.

CENTENNIAL OF HIS BIRTH

Celebrated in Great Style By Admiring Friends and Neighbors.

HIS A LONG AND USEFUL LIFE

Vincennes, Ind., April 29.—Vincennes kept open house Wednesday for its oldest citizen, William Green, Sr., in celebration of his 100th birthday anniversary.

All day and evening Mr. Green was at home to hundreds of relatives and friends. The old homestead occupies a quarter of a block in the center of the city, on the car line, and here a public reception was held that for uniqueness and brilliancy is seldom equaled.

On the spacious lawn a bandstand was erected and here the First Regiment band, of the Indiana National Guard, whose home is in Vincennes, furnished music, of which Mr. Green is passionately fond and which gave him much pleasure. The lawn was illuminated with one hundred specially-arranged electric lights.

In the house an orchestra played. Dinner and refreshments were served to hundreds. At 6 o'clock Postmaster John W. Emison and fifty employees of the post-office visited the centenarian in a body and presented him with one hundred red roses. From Al M. Ford came one hundred red carnations. Local florists were taxed heavily to supply all the flowers ordered for the occasion.

In the center of the table was an immense birthday cake surmounted with one hundred candles, which were illuminated during the evening.

Mr. Green is in good health, except for a recent injury to his foot, but this did not prevent him from accepting invitations to several automobile rides.

During the day Mr. Green was visited by John T. Simpson, Township Assessor, who assessed him for the year 1912. Mr. Simpson believes he is the only Assessor in the United States who visited a man 100 years old and obtained his taxable list and his personal signature the day that the man celebrated his 100th anniversary.

Mr. Green was born in England, and emigrated from Liverpool in 1831. Landing in New York, he came by water and stage to Evansville, where he accepted a position as stage driver. In the fall of 1831 he came to Vincennes, which was then larger than either Evansville or Terre Haute. He became owner of stage lines, and operated the same between Evansville, Louisville, Terre Haute and Danville. For sixty-five years he has held the contract for delivering the mail between trains and the post-office, and still holds the contract. He built the first opera house in Vincennes, and when it was destroyed twenty-five years ago, replaced it with the present opera house. In this line of work he entertained many of the earlier stage celebrities.

He has served in the City Council, bought the first fire engine, and was Vincennes' first fire chief.

The home he owns he bought in 1840 for $1,200. Its market value now is considered cheap at $30,000. Mr. Green is a man of regular habits and neither chews nor smokes. He is the father of thirteen children, of whom the following are living: Frank Green, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Ella Agnew, Mrs. Perry Tindolph and William Green, Jr., Vincennes.

William Watkins Dies.

William Watkins, a well known farmer of the Philpot neighborhood, died of infirmities incident to old age, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon after an illness lasting for several months. Mr. Watkins was seventy-eight years of age and is survived by his wife, two sons, Richard Watkins, of Pleasant Ridge; James Watkins, of Philpot; and one daughter, Miss Cordia Watkins, of Philpot.

TORNADO KILLS IN WILD SWEEP

About 150 are Injured By Wind's Fury.

THOUSANDS DOLLARS' DAMAGE

To Property and Many Houses Demolished in the Storm's Path.

SERIES OF WILD TORNADOES

Thirty-two persons are known to be dead, half a score were so severely injured they may die, and a hundred and fifty others were hurt in two tornadoes, one of which swept over Southern Illinois and the other across Northern Illinois into Indiana, just before sunset Sunday night.

Twelve were killed at Bush, Ill., five at Williesville, names not obtainable; three at Reddick, Ill., three near Murphysboro, Ill., and nine at Morocco, Ind.

Twelve dead were found at Bush, Ill., and it is expected that more will be found when the debris is cleared away.

Five persons were killed at Williesville and sixteen houses were demolished.

A special train arrived at Murphysboro, Ill., Sunday night carrying forty-one persons who were injured at Bush, Ill., by the tornado. They were taken to a Murphysboro hospital.

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern railroad station at Bush was destroyed, as were two rows of houses extending across the town.

Trail of Tornado.

Chicago, April 21.—A series of tornadoes swept across parts of Illinois just before nightfall.

The storm swept through the northern part of Murphysboro, Ill., seriously injuring Mrs. George King and two daughters and Mr. and Mrs. William Wilderback. No deaths were reported there. Ten houses were demolished at Murphysboro and the Illinois Central station at Finney was carried 300 feet.

Two sections reported tornadoes at the same time. Most damage, apparently, was done by that which appeared from Coal City, Ill., and swept eastward, the other being active in and near Murphysboro.

Waupee, a village near Coal City, was reported demolished, destroying telephonic communication, making it impossible to learn the seriousness of damage done there.

Houses, sheds and farm buildings near Coal City were demolished, windmills blown down and many head of cattle were reported killed. The tower above Mine No. 3 at Carbon Hill was toppled over.

At Allen, near Coal City, telephone and telegraph wires were laid to the ground for a mile at a stretch in several places. Near Dwight a schoolhouse and many farm buildings were destroyed.

The Chicago, Indiana & Southern Railway station at Reddick was blown across the tracks. Every farm building on the property of a man named Patchett there was destroyed and the family escaped injury by clinging to trees in the dooryard.

Many other buildings were destroyed at Reddick and near by and several persons were injured, none severely.

All of the south and east part of Grant Park, Ill., near Kankakee, was destroyed. Six persons were so severely injured as to require medical attention. A German church was demolished and other buildings were blown down in Grant Park.

Nine Killed in Indiana.

Kentland, Ind., April 21.—Nine persons were killed, five others so severely injured they are expected to die, half a hundred others were bruised by flying debris and thousands of dollars worth of property destroyed in and around Morocco Newton county, when a tornado swept out of the west this evening.

Others were hurt less severely. Twenty houses were blown down in and near Morocco and fully forty habitations in Newton county were destroyed.

As near as can be judged here the tornado started in Iroquois county, Ill., and swept eastward. Stock was killed when farm buildings went down.

Three Dead in Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., April 21.—Three persons are known to have lost their lives in the four tornadoes that late Saturday visited Southern and Central Kansas.

A Broyles was killed in the wreck of his home near Waldron, Harper county, and Prockop Kottal and his 4-year-old granddaughter were killed in the storm at Bison, Rush county.

A total of thirteen persons are known to have been injured in Kansas, and property damage will aggregate $200,000.

At Copan, an oil town in Oklahoma, one girl was killed and twenty-five persons injured.

A race between a Missouri Pacific train and the storm was won by the train near Nashville, Kingsman county, the twister crossing the track only three telegraph poles behind the train. Passengers crowded the rear platform to see the tornado at close range.

Two Dead in Oklahoma.

Perry, Ok., April 21.—Two children were killed by the tornado which swept over this place late yesterday. They are John Gerdes, aged 12, and Mary Gerdes, aged 2.

More than 100 wooden houses were blown over, and fourteen persons slightly injured. The Perry Country Club building was picked up and carried a quarter of a mile to the opposite side of the club lake. Frank Pearson, a boy, was playing in a barn when the wind picked it up and carried it 200 yards. The boy's arm was broken. Neither the barn nor the clubhouse was damaged greatly.

CAUGHT MAN CHARGED WITH BURNING STORE

Chicago, Ill., April 18.—Charles F. Blum, aged 40, also known to the public as James Howard, a former Adams Express messenger, was arrested to-day as a fugitive from justice.

According to the police he is wanted at Morganfield, Ky., on the charge of arson.

The burning of Cohn's department store at Morganfield two years ago is charged to Blum, according to the police. A search is also being made for Charles Cohn, one of the owners of the store, who is supposed to be in Los Angeles, California, the police say.

Another store at Owensboro, Ky., belonging to Cohn, is also alleged to have been destroyed by an incendiary.

Chas. Cohn was chief owner of the Ohio Valley Dry Goods Company store of Owensboro, which was destroyed by fire, and for which he and Blum are under indictment on the charge of arson.

The companies carrying insurance on the stock allege that the store was set on fire, and that previous to the fire Cohn had shipped most of the stock away, therefore the companies refuse to pay the losses.

TO "HEAVEN, HELL OR NEW YORK" IN JUST FIVE DAYS

Baltimore, Md., April 20.—"Heaven, hell or New York in five days," is what a Captain on a New York liner told a tourist was his standing official order, according to Captain John I. Lewis, an official of the Arundel Sand and Gravel Company, who has toured the world.

"One night, when returning from Europe," said Captain Lewis, "I came out on deck. It was so foggy that nothing could be seen. The Captain of the ship was walking the deck and I approached him and said:

"How fast are we going?"

"The master replied: 'Twenty-two miles an hour.'

"Is not that a violation of the law? I asked. The Captain admitted it was.

"Then," asked, "why do you run so fast through a fog?"

"The Captain replied: 'My official standing orders are, 'Heaven, hell or New York in five days.'"

Drowned in a Spring.

Maysville, Ky., April 20.—John Marshall, six-year-old son of John Buckley, of this county, was drowned today in a large spring on his father's farm. The child's body was found several hours later with a cup clasped in his hand. He had attempted to get a drink and tumbled in.

FLEEING BEFORE SURGING FLOOD

Many Made Homeless in Lower Mississippi.

RELIEF WORK IS CONDUCTED

By State and Federal Officials—Conditions Will Grow Worse.

WATER MAY STAY FOR WEEKS

With the flood waters of the Mississippi river rushing through crevasses in the levees of the big stream in Southeast Arkansas, Northwest Mississippi and Northeast Louisiana slowly finding their way over towns and plantations, reports continue to tell of much suffering in the vast flooded areas.

Relief among the thousands of homeless people is being well conducted under the supervision of State and Federal officials, with headquarters at Vicksburg, Miss., where already about 3,000 negroes from Louisiana are quartered. Relief stations have been established at a dozen points in Northeastern Louisiana, and at points in Mississippi throngs of destitute folk are being fed and given clothing, cooking utensils, medicines, etc.

The conditions will grow worse during the next few days in the Sunflower Valley of Mississippi, which is being inundated rapidly by the waters from the crevasse at Beulah and in Northeastern Louisiana, where the flood waters are pouring through the Dog Tail crevasse. Near Alsatia, La., the flood waters are spreading over portions of thirteen parishes. Several thousand square miles of rich bottom lands will have been inundated before the waters from these two great crevasses finally return to the Mississippi river through the Yazoo and the Red rivers.

Except in the vicinity of the Beulah crevasse, where ten negroes were reported drowned, the floods in that section thus far have claimed no lives, at least news of such has not reached the towns in the district which yet are in telegraphic communication with the outside world.

The Governors of Mississippi and Louisiana and Mayors of cities throughout these States have issued appeals during the last few days for relief funds, and provisions are being rushed rapidly to the flood sufferers. The flood waters will cover a vast area of the present inundated territory for perhaps a month longer, and it will be necessary to raise many thousands of dollars yet to succor the homeless and destitute.

The rains have not been general over a considerable portion of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas during the last week, but Saturday one of the heaviest hailstorms ever experienced in Southern Louisiana added to the alarm of the people whose property is endangered.

If the rains continue, the final result cannot be estimated.

WON SUIT FOR ALLEGED FALSE REPRESENTATION

Paducah, Ky., April 20.—In the suit of August D. Cooke, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., against Hale & Ward for $12,000 damages, a verdict for $8,000 was returned this afternoon. The plaintiff claimed to have purchased a large tract of timber land in the Reelfoot Lake section, with the understanding that a large quantity of the timber was ash. He alleged that after the purchase was made he found there was no ash timber on the land. This was the second trial of the suit, the first resulting in a hung jury.

The filing of his campaign expense account shows that the cost of the 15,000 votes which Col. Roosevelt received in the New York Presidential primary averaged $1 each, as the total expenditures were in excess of $59,000.

While the primary does not take place until August 20th, yet there are twenty-six announced candidates for county office in Madison county.

IF THE PEOPLE COULD ONLY SEE

Advantage Taken of Them
By the "Interests,"

IT WOULD OPEN THEIR EYES

To the Present Situation Of Our Great Affairs Of Government.

SIDE LIGHTS ON HAPPENINGS

Landes, who dominates Scandinavian literature, says: "Put problems to debate," and Milton concludes a panegyric on freedom with "Of all liberties, give me the liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely, according to conscience."

What sententious and wise reflections! This is why a Kentuckian never shoots a man who can talk politics—he wants to keep him to argue with.

The chief obstacle to thorough investigation of our political and industrial problems by the masses, is not only their indifference, but their lack of facilities for correct information. What of the bulls, bears, grafters, demagogues, cranks, sensation mongers, all bent upon confusion and misrepresentation, makes it well nigh impossible to get the true facts unless you are upon the ground. Nothing would please the bears more than for the Steel Probe Committee to wreck the trust stock. Nothing would please the defeated litigant, or candidate or the down-and-out, so well as recalls. How, then, could the initiative and referendum help matters? Would not the field for selfish operations be broadened and opportunities increased?

Our present system is the safer because it relieves the private citizen of much public work and responsibility which is given the representative, and, since the evils we complain of spring from our own neglect of public duty, whatever adds to these duties can but increase the evil. Indeed, have we not already reached the limit? Think of the cost of all the various divisions of government, the family, schools, churches, charities, fire losses—nearly half a billion last year—public enterprises—a single canal costing more than a quarter of a billion dollars—floods, the idle and deadbeats, the spoils of the grafter and trusts, litigation, and a thousand other drains upon the over-taxed energies, all of which must be subtracted from the earnings of the producer. No wonder he neglects his public duty; no wonder he staggers under the tremendous load like an Atlas. The wonder is that his nerves of steel, muscles of iron and heart of oak do not fail him altogether. Here is where our troubles begin.

Suppose the people had the time to get at the true inwardness of the protective feature of our tariff, a covert system of criminal taxation, which, under a mask of pure benevolence, robs them of one billion seven hundred millions of dollars annually and turns this fabulous sum over to a favored few, rendering them more powerful than any despot on earth, and who, while their long, felonious fingers are pillaging your pockets, with smug hypocrisy, sing psalms and extol Protection. How long, I ask, would it last? For fifty years, with consummate skill, the protectionist has confused the public mind and played upon party prejudices with ever increasing success. Lincoln said you can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time. How about it? Only a few days ago, a letter was written by a U. S. Senator, who is supposed to be guarding the interests of the people, to the Secretary of the Ohio Mfg. Co. (the Senator who is managing Roosevelt's campaign of pure politics), which, if read in the catacombs of Egypt, ought to open the eyes of mummies embalmed nine thousand years before Christ. Yet this infamous threat and demand is only another form of "You and I, Bro. Harriman, are practical men," and if you want this boundless graft to go on, you must cough up the dough. You fellows get about seven billions, or about $350 from every family, every four years and you can afford to put up a few paltry millions to carry States like New York and Indiana. So they can and so they do, while the bewildered victims stare at each other, wondering how and by whom it was done.

Protection paves the way to monopoly. Like a vampire it sucks

the fruit of labor and concentrates it in the hands of the privileged few, naturally rendering the conditions of the masses almost intolerable. Already the struggle for existence is tragic. While there is more money, more wealth, than before, it is so ingeniously filched from those who earned it and so systematically concentrated, that there is more poverty, more suffering than ever before. The opulence of a country does not mean general prosperity. It may mean slavery. When Egypt withdrew her fabulous wealth from the people and hoarded it in her temples, soon the owls began singing their watch-songs in her magnificent towers. She perished. Greece and Rome ventured the same economic blunder and shared the same fate—soon the spider wove his web in their glittering palaces. Bodes it to us no evil that in Roosevelt's seven years' orgies of trust formations that thirty-one billions of capital and ten thousand distinct, independent and competing industrial plants were drawn, by a system of interlocking directorates, within the control of six men, to say nothing of their baleful influence upon every important industry in the land? Absolute despots who dictate the financial policies of the country make and unmake men, measures and panics, laugh at our laws and scorn our courts. If they want to take over the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co. with all its vast holdings of natural resources, they produce a panic that not only wrecks Tennessee stocks, but forces Roosevelt to grant an open violation of law to save his administration from a like wreck. In all these great United States, where is there a set of men who would dare undertake any important enterprise without first going down upon their knees for the consent of these men?—Where is there an industrial or financial institution they cannot wreck at a word? What ten despots or demons ever had half such power?

Protection has made this possible. Indeed it is the chief factor. It arms these giants with the terrible bludgeon of nearly one and three-quarters of a billion dollars every year, with which to brain all opposition, and stands guard on our coasts to prevent any possible relief, till now, like a Hydra of Hesperides, they literally consume the substance of the people. But, mark you, I do not mean by this to cunningly suggest riots, violence, or destructive legislation. No, no. This would be criminal folly and could end only in disaster to all. The cure is in an intelligent ballot—a weapon that comes down as still as snowflakes upon the sod; but executes a freeman's will, as lightning does the will of God; and from its force no doors nor locks can shield even the almighty trust.

Heigh-ho! One by one we see our idols and altars tumble in the dust and ourselves thrown further back upon nerve-straining self-dependence. What a rest to mind and body to fully relax and wholly trust and believe in things—a saint's compensation even if his gods are false.

Like the little frolic, trusting puppy, we love to sally forth into this great big old world, piously believing that every living creature is our natural friend. But, alas! what shocks and cruel disillusion await us. How soon this beautiful faith is shattered! One of the last

THE EFFECTIVE LAXATIVE

Tastes Like and is Eaten Like Candy.

In our experience in the handling of drugs and medicines, we believe we have never had experience with any Remedy that gave such great satisfaction to our customers as do Rexall Orderlies. This Remedy is not like any other laxative or cathartic. It contains all the good features of other laxatives, but none of their faults.

Our own faith in Rexall Orderlies is so strong that we offer them to you with our own positive personal guarantee, that if they do not thoroughly satisfy you, you only need tell us and we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for them. Therefore, in trying them upon our recommendation, you take no risk whatever.

Rexall Orderlies taste like and are eaten like candy. They do not gripe, cause nausea, excessive looseness, or any other annoyance. They act so easily that they may be taken at any time, day or night. They are particularly good for children, aged, or delicate persons. They are put up in convenient tablets in three sizes of packages. Prices, 10c, 25c and 50c.

to fall was Consistency, the jewel. Vandals had disfigured it before, to be sure, but it was when this great Government desecrated its altar it fell, and now, judged by the contradictory laws and rulers, it was never a jewel at all but a mere cloak for fools and scoundrels. Take for instance, Taft's touching solicitude about the high cost of living. By what system of morals can it be harmonized with his hearty indorsement of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, when it takes, wrings, from the scant earnings of the average family $87 every year, and turns it over to a favored few whose only claim is their liberal contribution to a corruption fund of a party pledged to perpetuate this legalized robbery.

If Protection joins in building up monopoly by denying the consumer his natural right to buy wherever he can buy cheapest abroad, by what code of ethics, moral or economic, can the Government prosecute an oil, steel, tobacco, beef or sugar trust, for merely extending the principle to our home market? What is the difference? Or are we to believe that here we have an excellent sauce for a goose that's h—l on ganders?

Again, by what pretense of consistency can Mr. Taft explain his Attorney General's frightful prosecution of the Oil Trust—almost as terrific as Teddy's battle with the Harvester Trust—with the howling facts that none of them are languishing in jail, that their combined property is worth to-day, only a few months after he so triumphantly pulverized the mass into its original contemptible atoms, is worth two hundred and twenty-five millions of dollars more than when he brought the "dom plucrats" to book, and that their stocks, which never reached $850 before the spectacular disintegration, are now going at $1,000? If there's nothing dead in Denmark, whew! what an earth is that we smell? What a Cadmean victory! A few more such redresses of the wrongs of the people would fix our clock beautifully—jerk us right into Paradise. But had this been a Farmers Tobacco Pool or Rockefeller's stable boy charged with counterfeiting a few nickels, I venture to believe there would have been quite a different story to tell. We should then have heard nothing of "impersonal guilt, restraint of trade" and all that in-sufferable rot that makes Justice scream—just a plain Wickersham story of prison bars and laws triumphant.

But of all the cheap sop cast to cupidity, rotten bait thrown to suckers, gold bricks handed the Rubes, the imaginary feasts to flatter vanity and appease hunger, to which the victims of rapine were ever invited, perhaps the raw deal that Protection protects labor is the starkest and baldest. Nearly two billions of dollars given the trusts annually that they may (if they want to, but they never do) pay higher wages. What on earth has the wealth of the employer to do with the wages he pays? With millions would he not go abroad and import enough pauper labor to hammer yours down to starvation? If it promotes business and protects labor, what about the panic of 1907, the worst the country ever suffered and from which it has never recovered? What about the conditions of labor now under a still higher protection? What about Lawrence, Mass.? Nothing in New England has approached the dreadful condition of those thousands of wild men, women and children workers, since the historic draft lots of the Civil War. Does it signify nothing that those woeen mills were operated under Schedule K, the highest protection ever imposed on any civilized people? Payne, Aldrich, Lodge, Smoot and all that coterie of Stand-patters, (Taft himself said it was the best law that ever passed) pictured the law as a special gift of Heaven sent to the toilers of Lawrence. What did they get? Not comfort and independence, but increased cost of living, decreased wages, cold and hunger that made them desperate; then bayonets, bloodshed and a reign of terror. Instead of angels blessing them with horns of plenty, ghosts of famine stalked their streets and haunted their cheerless homes.

Oh, no, Consistency is not a jewel. That was all an unfortunate though happy delusion. It is a mere bug-a-boo, a betenore of little minds.

A TRAGIC LITTLE TALE OF WRECK

Of the Giant Steamship Titanic Last Week.

A DEVOTED FAMILY REFUSED

To Be Separated in the Face
Of the Awful Disaster
And Shipwreck.

AMIDST A MASS OF ICEBERGS

New York, April 18.—The first circumstantial story of what actually happened on the Titanic was let slip at the office of the White Star Line this morning. Though White Star officials deny that they have had any further news than they have given out, it is believed they have received other messages. An incident which tends to confirm this was the accidental mention by a clerk in the line's office of a strange feature of the wreck. His story, which he begged be not attributed to him, was that of a family named Allison, aboard the Titanic, only one member of which, a child, had been saved.

"Because Mr. Allison would not take to the lifeboats, but stayed behind with the men," said this clerk, "his wife and daughter also refused to leave the ship and went down with the Titanic, having first put their little boy safely in one of the boats in charge of his nurse."

"How do you know this?" the clerk was asked. He realized for the first time that he was talking to two reporters. He tried to laugh off the story, but finding that impossible, admitted he had got the information "inside" pointing upstairs to the executive offices.

It is a fact that the family of J. W. Allison was aboard and that neither Mrs. Allison nor Miss Allison, who were in the party, have been reported saved. When asked if he knew of any other wreck incident, the clerk smiled and replied that "one slip was enough for him." The first cabin list of the Titanic registers the Allison family as follows:

"H. J. Allison, wife, son, daughter, maid and nurse." They are from Montreal.

The wireless operator of steamer Mesaba, of Atlantic Transport Line, which arrived this morning, reported that on Sunday night at 7:50 o'clock, New York time, he warned the Titanic that there was an immense ice floe in the giant liner's path. The Mesaba sailed from London on April 4, and was about ninety miles ahead of the Titanic, nearing this port, when she sent the warning. It is as follows:

"In latitude 42 to 41.35 north, longitude 49 to 50.30 west, saw much heavy packed ice and great number of icebergs. Weather clear."

The answer that came from the liner plunging to her doom was:

"Thanks."

It was signed M. G. Y., the Titanic's signature.

Stanley H. Adams, the wireless operator of the Mesaba, is a Londoner. He said this morning that before he sent the message of warning to the Titanic he heard the big liner working from Cape Race. He broke in to send a message when aware of her presence in the neighborhood.

Capt. Clark, of the Mesaba, said, just after his vessel docked this morning, that he had gone 120 miles out of his course to get around the mass of ice floes.

"It was the biggest I have ever seen in many voyages," he said. "It must have been from seventy to ninety miles long. There were from seventy to 100 bergs in it. We were in its immediate proximity on Sunday morning at 6 a. m."

The first news the Mesaba had of the Titanic disaster was on Monday at 9 a. m., when the Parisian and Olympic were overheard discussing the disaster.

Officers on board the Mesaba say that on Sunday night and Monday morning before dawn the weather was not foggy. The sky was overcast. It was impossible to see the stars, though there was no fog on the sea. The absence of starlight, they added, made it difficult to see the icebergs.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning the wireless man on the Cruiser Chester reported that the Carpathia's operator had left his key for the night, utterly exhausted by his work through a stretch of more than fifty-six hours. F. L. Maim, the Marconi wireless man on board the Carpathia, who detected the Titanic's "S. O. S." signal, plied the air with blue flame until he found the sinking vessel's location and then gave the world the lightning flash glimpses of the appalling scene.

KATYDID WIGGLE AND CATERPILLAR SQUIRM

A dispatch to the daily press from Washington says: "The 'Turkey Trot' and the 'Grizzly Bear' were much in evidence at the dance following the White House reception to the Judiciary, and despite the disapproval with which these new dances may meet in other cities, in Washington they are danced in the most exclusive circles, apparently without offense. At the regular Monday evening meetings of the Dancing Club they still flourish and the instructor finds new pupils awaiting him each week."

On the same day the daily newspapers published the following dispatch from New York: "The 'Turkey Trot' and the 'Grizzly Bear,' the dances which were recently taken up by New York's Four Hundred, were to-day barred from public dance halls of the city by order of the proprietors."

THE SELECTION OF TAFT MEANS A SURE DEFEAT

And a "Dark Horse" is Talked About—LaFollette Men

Arc Figuring.

(Republican Daily Special.)

Washington, April 18.—While the Taft forces profess entire confidence in their ability to pick the renomination plumb for President Taft, there developed to-day a strong belief that only the selection of some other candidate will promise success to the Republican national ticket this fall.

The grooming of dark horses has already begun. Two most prominently mentioned are Senator Cummins, of Iowa, and Justice Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court. This is no expectation that the Chicago convention can be stamped to either of these men, but those who believe that the party would be helplessly split if either Taft or Roosevelt were nominated, hope that a compromise can be reached.

It is believed that a dark horse who will be favorable to both wings of the party can be reached only in the event that President Taft voluntarily retires in the interest of harmony, and pressure will be brought upon the President before the national convention to take this action.

With the Republicans split into three divisions, one favoring President Taft, another favoring Senator LaFollette and the third clinging to the Roosevelt band wagon, the prospect of any one of these men winning, even after a long, hard fight, is becoming more and more remote, according to the national leaders.

Those who favor a compromise are seeking a candidate who blends the progressive principles with those of conservatism in a degree which will appease voters of all factions. There are a number of leaders, however, who fear that this is next to impossible.

W. S. Bailey, McCreary, Ky., is willing to verify his statement as given herewith. He says: "My wife had a severe attack of la grippe that terminated in bronchitis. She coughed as though she had consumption, could not sleep, and her medicine gave no relief. She was advised to try Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and she continued using it until she had taken three bottles, which effected a permanent cure." For sale at all drug stores.

Champ Does Handsome Thing. Speaker Champ Clark has withdrawn his name from the ballot to be used in New Jersey in the primary election on May 28th, to choose delegates to the Democratic National Convention. The action was taken as a courtesy to Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of that State, who, like Speaker Clark, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

An Item of Home Interest. Charles Gormley, 307 Maxwell street, Lexington, Ky., has lately been cured of kidney and bladder trouble. He says: "I heard of Foley Kidney Pills and the good they were doing, and after taking them a few days, the pain left my back, the tired feeling passed away, and I am glad to recommend them." ## IMMENSE SUM SPENT FOR DRINK

Annually by People of United States.

THREE BILLIONS EACH YEAR

Go For the Stuff That Only Damns Souls and Ruins Lives.

A FEW STARTLING FIGURES

The amount of money we spend every year in the United States, directly and indirectly, for liquor would give a two-weeks vacation to every man, woman and child in the land, with their board and expenses paid. We spend $1,500,000,000 a year for alcoholic drinks, and we spend as much more for Judges, police, jails, poorhouses and insane asylums to take care of the people who get into trouble through hard drink. That makes $3,000,000, or $30 apiece for everybody. For a family of father, mother and four children it amounts to $180 a year, a nice sum for an outing in the country.

It is estimated that 1,500,000 men and women in the United States are every day either mentally or physically disabled for work as a result of drink.

If it could be shown that the drinking man had better brains, or better muscles, or better earning power, or lived longer than the man who did not drink, there might be some argument in favor of drink, even in spite of all that has just been said. But thousands of experiments have shown that the brain worker and the laboring man are both at a disadvantage if they drink.

Experiments in the French army showed that under all circumstances the French soldier is 40 per cent, more efficient when subjected to a regimen of total abstinence. Generals Roberts and Kitchener in Africa proved the same fact about the British army. Laboring men who used to feel the necessity of having their dram regularly in order to do their work and do it well, now know they were formerly deceived, and that they are better workmen without drink. So well is this understood by practical business men that many large railroads and other employers of labor have prohibited the use of alcoholic liquors by employees at all times. Some marine insurance companies make a reduction of 5 per cent in insurance rates to ships on which no liquors are drunk during the voyage.—[New York American.]

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Hartford Citizen Testifies for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Hartford citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Hartford citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

Daniel King, Hartford, Ky., says: "I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills some time ago and they did me so much good that I am pleased to recommend them to others, knowing of their value. For some time I suffered intensely from pains in my sides and in the small of my back. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used by friends with such excellent results that I thought I would try them. I got them at the Ohio County Drug Co. Their use as directed permanently cured me."

NO UNSINKABLE SHIP IS KNOWN

Idea is Called Fiction of Ticket Sellers.

TITANIC WAS JUST WITHIN LAW

In Life-saving Apparatus—Boats for Only Nine Hundred.

WORKING ON A SLIDING DECK

London, April 18.—“Naval architects are busy themselves even now with the problem of designing a deck which can be slipped from a sinking liner,” said John Harvard Biles, vice president of the Institution of Naval Architects, in an interview to-day. He continued:

“The problem is chiefly that of the expense of the apparatus, which would be used only once in fifty years. An unsinkable ship is a fiction of the trans-Atlantic ticket sellers. All things considered, even in case of a collision with an iceberg, a vessel of the size of the Titanic ought to be safer than a smaller liner. A head-on collision would leave more compartments undamaged, while a side-swipe could be better resisted. It is possible to carry sufficient boats to save every soul on board a liner. I cannot account for the failure of the wireless apparatus on the Titanic almost two hours prior to her foundering, as a supplementary dynamo was carried fifteen feet above the water line.”

Figures from the highest official source supplied to-day by one of the most prominent British naval designers show that 960 persons was the greatest number that could possibly be saved with the apparatus carried on the Titanic. That vessel's facilities were just within the Board of Trade regulations, which specified that a ship must be equipped with wooden or metal boats sufficient to carry 550 passengers from a 10,000-ton vessel. Collapsible boats, rafts and other apparatus not carried on davits must be supplied to accommodate three-fourths as many, making the total

it would be possible to save under the Board of Trade rules 962.

The plans show that the Titanic carried lifeboats to accommodate 960 persons. Each of the eighteen lifeboats was capable of taking fifty-three passengers. There is not evidence on the plans to show that the Titanic carried any collapsible boats or rafts, her lifeboats putting her barely within the Board of Trade regulations. Comparison with the Oceanic and Campania, which are much smaller, show that they carry twenty boats each, while the Lusitania has only sixteen. The Board of Trade rules laid down in 1905 took as their basis 10,000-ton ships and apply only to ships with water-tight compartments. It does not appear that in the big ships of later date any attempt to increase the life-saving apparatus beyond that required by the regulations was made.

WHY CAN'T WE RAISE EDIBLES WE CONSUME?

A Pertinent Question That Aptly Applies to the Farming Classes.

An upper Kentucky paper says that thousands of dollars are going out of its county every season for cabbage, potatoes and apples. The pertinent and proper question is asked, “Why not raise what we consume?”

Cabbage, potatoes and apples are articles of consumption which may be grown to a reasonable degree of perfection in Kentucky. Decidedly it would be much better to grow them at home than to buy them from our Northern neighbors at the increased price that is necessitated by the cost of handling, packing and shipping. In that way we should have more money in circulation in the State and if, perchance, we grow a surplus of these products, they might profitably be exchanged for other people's money.

There are other vegetables and fruits which Kentuckians buy from abroad in preference to growing them at home. The outlay for these is enormous, and there would be no better way of saving money than by producing them in our fields and truck patches with the aid of our favoring soil and climate which always do a fair share of work in co-operation with the efforts of the farmer and fruit-grower. Soil and climate cannot do all the work. If so, we should have potatoes for the digging, and apples for the plucking. One reason we do not have more of these commodities is because we are not keeping up our end of the enterprise and are not giving the soil and climate a chance to show what they can do when intelligently assisted.

In an agricultural county—and there are many such counties in Kentucky—there does not seem to be much excuse for sending away from home for cabbage, potatoes or apples. Yet there probably are few, if any, counties in Kentucky which raise a sufficiency of these articles for home consumption. Kentuckians should devote more attention to horticulture and truck-growing or should invite immigration with an especial view to development in these lines.—[Courier-Journal.]

Strange Things in the Wash.

The women are in such a hurry these days to get to their clubs that they are rather careless in wrapping up their family washing which goes to the laundry. Such articles as combs, brushes, shoe-buttoners, pocket knives, dishes and many other articles are quite ordinary finds in family washings. Recently an Erie laundryman rolled a poodle dog out of a family washing. Last week he found an alarm clock.—[Kansas City Journal.]

Gettysburg.

The whole number of men engaged on both sides in the battle of Gettysburg was 160,000; federal 90,000, confederate, 70,000. The losses were 53,433, about equally divided between the Blue and the Gray. During the three days' fighting the aggregate amount of lead and iron shot at each other by the two armies was 566 tons. In the light of this fact the wonder is that the losses were not very much greater.

W. J. Bellamy, Clarksburg, Ky., gives particulars of his son's recovery. He says: “My boy of sixteen had bronchial trouble ever since he was a baby, and it gradually grew worse until we feared consumption. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and soon there was such a marked improvement that I got a second bottle and this will, I think, make a permanent cure. The first bottle cured his stubborn cough, and I think this wonderful medicine saved my boy's life.” For sale at all drug stores.

FULL FIVE-TO-ONE TRIBUTE IS PAID

To the Trusts Under Present Tariff Laws.

GOVERNMENT GETS A DOLLAR

While “Big Interests” Get Five Out of the Revenue Collections.

EXCISE BILL LIKELY TO PASS

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, April 18.—The impression is steadily gaining ground that the Democratic excise-income tax, which proposes to place upon wealth a part of the burden of sustaining the Government, will pass the Senate and the White House. Senator Penrose, who pretends to be the leader of the Stand-patters in the Senate, has made the statement that none of the Democratic bills would be allowed to pass the Senate, but it is becoming more and more apparent that Senator Penrose and those of his kind who have assumed in the past to rule the Senate, no longer have the power to “allow” certain measures to pass, or prevent others from passing.

The truth is, a great many of the Senators on both sides of the chamber, either because they are at last frightened by the wave of protest against the high tariff injustice, or because they believe in the inherent right and justice of the income tax measure, have come to look favorably on the bill. At least there has been a cessation of the talk about the “unconstitutionality” of the measure, and since this argument always has been the Stand-pat answer to all logical proposals, the sign is considered a good one. Nobody pretends to know, of course, what the ultimate fate of the present bill will be, but from the popular approval that has been accorded the measure, it is admitted by all that such legislation must come eventually.

The present tariff law raises about $330,000,000 annually in Government revenues. For every dollar of revenue thus turned into the United States Treasury, it is estimated by Democratic leaders in Congress, who have studied the matter from every possible angle, that the tariff barons put five dollars into their own pockets in the form of loot. In other words, the tariff gives these beneficiaries the right to collect five dollars in tribute for every dollar the Government collects in revenue.

This condition is alone responsible for the horde of mushroom millionaires in this country. On every article of daily use the people of this country pay this “five-to-one” tribute.

In the past, the tariff barons have urged a tariff for two principal reasons. First, they pretended that they desired to “protect” American workmen. That this argument, which the protectionists in Congress listened to with a willing ear for the past sixteen years, is a farce, pure and simple, has been proven beyond a doubt by the Democrats at this session of Congress, chiefly through the various investigations into trust methods. Secondly, the trust heads pointed out that in no other way could revenue be collected for the Government's support. They thus gave their plea for a tariff the form of an excuse.

Having disposed of the first “reason” for keeping up the tariff, the Democrats, through the excise-income tax bill, have offered a solution of the other alleged difficulty. The bill repealing the tax on sugar, which will reduce the price to the consumer 2 cents a pound if the measure is enacted into law, and the bill to place a tax on all incomes of more than $5,000 a year, are two of the most important measures passed by the House of Representatives in the last quarter of a century.

These sister bills, conceived and framed by Democratic committees, were so good, in fact, that eighty Republicans were forced to vote for them. “Forced to vote for them” is the correct expression, because the Republicans refused steadfastly when in power to pass such legislation, or even to consider it, but when the Democrats forced them to vote one way or the other, they were afraid to vote against either bill, lest their constituents retire them to private life.

HIS BODY WAS PERFECT AFTER 41 YEARS BURIAL

Buried for 41 years, the body of Pedro Mazzini was exposed to the view of relatives, who declared that it had not changed a particle, every feature having remained the same as the day the body was placed in the casket.

The grave was disturbed as the result of a request made by Mrs. Margaret Mazzini, who before her death three days ago said she wanted the remains of her husband placed in a small box—supposing they had reduced to ashes—and her own body laid to rest in his coffin with his ashes at her side.

When the grave was opened in the presence of the five surviving children, an unexpected and surprising condition was found. The body of Mazzini, which had been buried in an air-tight steel casket, was in a perfect state of preservation. The children saw the features of their father as perfect as when the body was laid away in 1871. Even the garments showed no wasting.—[Santa Barbara Cor. Los Angeles Times.]

REPLY FROM MEXICO TO UNCLE SAM'S NOTE

Declines to be Responsible for Acts of the Rebel Chief Orozco.

Mexico City, April 17.—Mexico replied to the note of Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson to-night, declining to assume responsibility for Orozco's acts, denying the right of the Washington Government to deliver the admonition contained therein, taking exception to the communication directed to Orozco through Consul Letcher, and deploring the making public of this communication in the same note to which the Government was required to make answer.

The reply was given to the press by Minister of Foreign Relations Calero. It denies the right of the Washington Government to admonish Mexico, for the reason that it is not based on any justifiable incident. It denies responsibility by the constituted government for acts committed in territory removed from law, while accepting full responsibility for every loss or damage sustained to foreigners, legally chargeable to the Government.

A caution has been issued to the leaders of the Federal forces to insure proper treatment of foreigners who may be taken as prisoners of war; at the same time it is asserted that no basis exists for supposing that any other course would be pursued.

Orozco is held to be answerable for his offenses only to the Mexican courts and therefore should not have been made the recipient of a diplomatic communication.

The Sacraments. The Christian sacraments are two, according to the Protestants—baptism and the Lord's Supper. According to the Catholics there are seven—baptism, the Lord's Supper, confirmation, penance, holy orders, matrimony and extreme unction—as laid down by the Council of Trent in 1547. There is not room here to explain “transubstantiation.” It would take a whole page to do that, and there might be a few mysteries between the lines.

When you feel Lazy, Stretchy, Half Sick, Blue and Out of Sorts, look to the Liver; it is Torpid.

HERBINE

Is the Remedy You Need.

It is an invigorating tonic for a torpid liver. The first dose brings improvement, a few days use puts the liver in fine vigorous condition. Herbine also extends its restorative influence to the stomach and bowels. It helps digestion and food assimilation, purifies the bowels and brings back the habit of regular daily bowel movements. When the stomach, liver and bowels are active, bilious impurities no longer obstruct functional processes, the result of which is renewed energy, mental activity and cheerful spirits.

FRANK L. FELIX, Pub. and Prop'r.

Entered at the Hartford post-office
as mail matter of the second class.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson lost his suit case in Illinois while on a speaking tour, also the delegate vote of the State. He recovered the suit case.

It is said that some of the Taft followers, becoming discouraged lately, have taken to religious thought and pursuit for comfort and consolation.

We have been waiting for some suffragette to get up and insert a plank in their platform demanding that all ladies take their big hats off in church. We would "second" that motion heartily.

It is sincerely hoped that Kentucky's delegates to the Baltimore Convention will not go uninstructed.
Kentucky Democrats certainly have a choice for President and they want that choice named.

Farmers are wont to complain of their hard lot and unfortunate weather conditions, but all living in this section should be glad that they have not been compelled to endure the wreck and ruin of the flooded districts of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. There was misfortune sure enough.

An amateur gardener has furnished us with the following information, which may come in handy this time of year. He says in putting in potatoes, it is best to plant onions alongside, as the latter will bring tears to the eyes of the potatoes and there will be no need of irrigation. He also suggests eggplant and milkweed as a good garden combination. Result, custard pie.

It seems that two great causes stand out for the fearful shipwreck and appalling loss of life afloat the Titanic horror. One was the reckless speed (about 25 miles an hour)
at which this giant of the ocean was tearing through a sea of icebergs, and the other a lack of sufficient lifeboats to accommodate near all the passengers and crew.
The steamer was several hours in sinking and all could have gotten off if there had been lifeboats sufficient. The speed, we understand, was by order of the owners for a
"record." Such causes are unpardonable in these modern times.

The Morgantown Republican editorially asks:

"Who is Judge O'Rear?"

Why, son, don't you remember him? He is the fellow who "also ran" for Governor on the Republican ticket last year, on a platform endorsing Mr. Taft for President.
He is also the man who held his hands in benediction over the head of Senator Bradley and said: "Here stands a man whose political soul is without a stain," or words to that effect. True, he has gone "way back and sat down, but many of your party still regard him as a notable character.

A CONSUMMATE DODGER.

We scanned the editorial page of the last issue of "Our Country" (out last Thursday) over thoroughly for a possible answer to The Herald's editorial of April 3d, wherein was repeated the question we had asked twice before: "Is or is not
'Our Country' a liquor organ, backed by the liquor interests?" Each of its nine editorial articles was headed with an appropriate caption and all dealt with agricultural matters ("Our Country's" alleged mission) except one, which was headed "Mr. Bryan's Attitude," and purported to be an extract from the Commoner correcting a report that Mr. Bryan would introduce a Prohibition resolution in the Democratic National Convention. Upon this extract "Our Country" commented to the length of a column, taking its usual stand in favor of promiscuous liquor drinking, until the very last paragraph,
which is as follows:

"Our brother of The Hartford Herald, who has been chewed up some by us on the Bible side of the question, is invited to take up this question with us as soon as he can get about without groaning."
These few lines, which constituted "Our Country's" sole reply to The Herald's somewhat lengthy challenge, were so obscure and hidden in the body of another article which did not deal in any way with the question at hand, that we nearly missed them.

And so this is Our Country's "answer," is it? This puerile, silly, meaningless paragraph, we suppose,
is intended as a reply to our vital question—the only question at issue—IS OR IS NOT "OUR COUN-TRY," ISSUED AS A FARM

JOURNAL, BACKED BY THE LI-QUOR INTERESTS? We expected
"Our Country" to dodge, as it has been doing, but we at least expected a more sensible reply. We are sorry if our persistent questioning has disturbed the woozy somnolence of "Our Country's" sista, but this alleged "groaning" does not seem to have awakened our contemporary to a sober appreciation of the fact that in practical journalism, a silly insinuation does not constitute a sane reply to a straightforward question. If we have been "chewed up some" by
"Our Country" or any of its emissaries, either figuratively or in fact, we have not discovered it, as our epidermis is all here and our facilities of utterance are still intact.
The editor of "Our Country" must have just dreamed that he did this sort of thing and, as usual with such bacchanalian hallucinations, was sure he saw it just that way.
We have heard of these cases before, but does not "Our Country"
know that medicine and science have combined for a remedy? This great temperance(?) paper should not indulge in such intemperate and misleading thoughts. It should curb its appetite for—imagination,
and get rid of this trouble.

We hope "Our Country" will ultimately recover and that it will yet be able to stand straight enough to answer a simple question like
The Herald's, without blinking.

MASKED MEN ROB PULLMAN PASSENGERS

Covered By Revolvers, Porter
Is Forced to Point Out Occupied Berths.

Chicago, April 21.—Nine persons were robbed of money or valuables, or both, by three masked hold-up men, who went through the sleeper Nottingham, of the Rock Island's west-bound Golden State Limited, a few minutes after midnight this morning, at Sheffield, Ill., forty miles east of Moline. After the robbers had finished their work they shot holes in the air signal tube connecting with the engine, thus bringing the train to a standstill, and quickly made their escape.

Under cover of three revolvers
the porter was forced to point out to the outlaws the berths that were occupied. As soon as the robbers entered the Pullman they forced the porter to lock the doors. Only the occupants of one Pullman were disturbed.

Those who were robbed are: W.
L. Le Blanc, New York, $45 and railroad ticket; Mary Herron, Chicago, $96; O. L. Benton, Oberlin, Kan., gold watch and diamond, valued at $150, and $250 cash; D. A.
M. Fuller and wife, Fort Wayne, Ind., $95 and two watches, valued at $60; J. B. Gomand, Phoenix, Ariz., $85.

Presence on the train of the three robbers has not been accounted for. It is thought perhaps the men boarded the limited at the crossing of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, near which a Burlington train was held up some time ago.

After the desperadoes had taken their loot, they commanded the porter to pull the air tube as a signal for the engineer to stop the train. When the porter demurred, the men punctured the tube with bullets. The firing of the revolvers was the only noise connected with the holdup.

It was stated at the general offices of the Rock Island here to-day that a good description of the outlaws was obtained, and it was said further there were hopes of running them down.

Nervous? Thin? Pale?

Are you easily tired, lack your usual vigor and strength?
Then your digestion must be poor, your blood must be thin, your nerves must be weak. You need a strong tonic. You need Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. We believe your doctor will endorse these statements. Ask and find out.

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills.
A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

MINERS BURIED BY A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

And Five Men Were Entombed
in Coal Shaft at Madisonville.

Madisonville, Ky., April 21.—One white man and four negro miners were entombed in the mines of the Coal Coal Company, just at the northeast part of this city, tonight, following an explosion which shook the city and was heard for many miles. It is supposed to have been an explosion of gas or of powder.

The men in the mine are: Joe Hollowell, white, aged 27, married, one child, night pit boss, who was in charge of the mine at the time of the explosion; Charles New, married, miner; Will Hughes, single;
Skip Light, single; Herbert Petree, single.

At exactly 7 o'clock to-night a crew composed of the five entombed men was dropped to the bottom of the shaft in the cage. Within ten minutes the workmen on the outside were stunned by a terrific explosion and the air was full of flying debris. A mass of flames shot out of the mine shaft and the air shaft, and for several minutes
the sound of rock and debris striking the ground could be heard.
Hundreds of persons hearing the explosion went to the scene at once and Assistant Mine Inspector Long,
of Earlinton, came in an automobile with helmets and other instruments for entering the mine. It was found that the machinery on the top was out of working order,
and one cage was blown to pieces.
The other cage was left intact.

No hope is entertained for the rescue of the entombed miners.
Even if they were not killed instantly by the explosion, they probably will have been suffocated before the mine will be entered early Monday morning. Several mine men expressed the belief that the explosion was due to dynamite, and as there were a number of kegs in the mines, they think these were set off accidentally. It is known that no shots had been placed and none were to be fired. Others believe that the probable cause was gas.

The company is a new one and the shaft was sunk only a few months ago at the depth of 200 feet. It was owned by the Coal Coal Company, of which W. D.
Coil is president. The mine usually works fifteen men at night. The town was in darkness for some time, as the current was shut off to prevent persons at the scene from being electrocuted by numerous live wires.

Mangled Body Found.

Madisonville, Ky., April 22.—
Thousands of persons are swarming about the scene of last night's mine explosion. The wrecking crew have worked desperately since 8 o'clock last night, burrowing into the mass of debris.

It developed this morning that one of the four negroes was on the cage at the time of the explosion.
The mine is 200 feet deep and the cage was blown out at the top.
The negro's mangled body, with head severed, was taken from the mass of timbers at noon to-day.
None of the other bodies has been recovered. The wife of Joe Hollowell is frantic with grief and grave fears for her life are felt.

HOPEWELL.

April 21.—Kittie M. Taylor was born December 13, 1843, and departed this life April 20, 1912, at her old home where she was born and raised. After funeral services conducted by Rev. Eply, her pastor, she was laid to rest in the church cemetery to await the resurrection morn. She professed religion and joined the Methodist church at Hopewell in 1866. About 1881 she moved her membership to Taylor-town, where she lived a shining light until death.

Mr. Joe Brown has a sick child at his home.

Messrs. Elbert and Porter Hunley took over 100 chickens to Beaver Dam last Friday.

Mr. Albin Shull lost a fine colt
last Sunday.

Mr. Elbert Hunley lost a good two-year-old filly recently.

Miss Maude Miles is visiting her sister, Miss Beulah Miles, who is going to school at Hartford.

Several of the neighbors attended the funeral of Miss Kittie
Taylor at Taylortown last Sunday.

We had a little rain and hail here last Sunday, but it did not hurt anything.

ADABUEG.

April 19.—Misses Iva Patton and Eula Midkiff are visiting Mrs. C.
W. Moseley at Owensboro.

Miss Zoda Raymon, who is attending school at Pleasant Ridge, visited her parents here from Friday until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Patton and daughter, Elda C., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller, near Dundee.

Tiny May, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Froman, is on the sick list.

The oldest son of Mr. Riley Greer is dangerously ill and not expected to live.

Miss Ethel Phillips, Westerfield, visited Miss Gertrey Raymon here
Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. C. L. Patton has taken off his first hatch of chickens from his incubator. He had an excellent hatch and chicks are doing fine.

Mr. Oscar Sapp and family, recently of Owensboro, have moved back to his farm near here.

Miss Bertha Sapp, of Westerfield, was here Tuesday afternoon, calling.

LAST ACT OF CAPTAIN OF THE DOOMED TITANIC

Was Effort to Save Life of Little Girl Intrusted to His Care.

New York, April 20.—Taking refuge on the bridge of the ill-fated Titanic, two little children remained by the side of Captain Smith until that portion of the big ship had been swept by water.

Survivors of the crew who went down with the Titanic, but were saved by clinging to an overturned lifeboat, to-day told of their gallant commander's effort to save the life of one of the children.

He died a sailor's death and the little girl who had intrusted her life to his care died with him.

"He held the little girl under one arm," said James McGann, a fireman, "as he jumped into the sea and endeavored to reach the nearest lifeboat with the child. I took the other child into my arms as I was swept from the bridge deck.

When I plunged into the cold water I was compelled to release my hold on the child and I am satisfied that the same thing happened to Captain Smith.

"I had gone to the bridge to assist in lowering a collapsible boat.
The water was then coming over the bridge and we were unable to launch the boat properly.

"It was overturned and was used as a life raft, some 30 or more of us, mostly firemen, clinging to it.
Captain Smith looked as though he was trying to keep back the tears
as he thought of the doomed ship.

"He turned to the men lowering the boat and shouted: 'Well boys, it's every man for himself.' He then took one of the children standing by him on the bridge and jumped into the sea. He endeavored to reach the overturned boat, but did not succeed. That was the last I saw of Captain Smith."

McGann said that Captain Smith from the bridge directed the lowering of the life boats.

He said that the story that Captain Smith had committed suicide as the Titanic was going down, is without foundation.

Benjamin Hawes Dead.
Benjamin W. Hawes, a highly influential and prosperous farmer of the Maceo neighborhood, died of cancer of the stomach at 6:30 o'clock Friday morning at his residence at Maceo. Mr. Hawes had been in failing health for some time, and for the past four months his condition had been regarded as critical.

Mr. Hawes was born in Davies-county, October 9, 1845, and at the time of his death was sixty-six years of age. His widow and one son survive, George Bright Hawes, of Maceo. Mr. Hawes is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Jesse B.
Adams, of Hawesville, and Miss Millie Hawes, of Maceo.

Every family that has children is liable to have croup; invariably at

The State Board of Health has issued a bulletin on the hookworm disease, said to exist in twenty-five counties in Kentucky.

When a medicine must be given to young children, it should be pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is made from loaf sugar, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it pleasant to take. It has no superior for colds, croup and whooping cough.

BEAVER DAM.

April 22.—E. P. Barnes & Bro. bought the entire crop of poultry of the county, both pooled and unpooled, and commenced receiving last Wednesday. Notwithstanding the downpour of rain, there were more wagons in town than were ever seen at any one time before. The price paid for chickens was 12 1/4 cents in cash or 13 cents in merchandise. They were receiving four days and loaded six cars and paid out over thirteen thousand dollars for poultry and about three thousand dollars for eggs. Mr. J. N. Norris, of Louisville, bought the entire lot from Barnes Bros. and both poultry and eggs were shipped direct to New York City.

Mr. Dav Taylor has sold his beautiful residence on Main street, near the Baptist church, to Dr. Willis, of Cromwell.

Mr. Robert Plummer, of Centertown, while en route to Beaver Dam with a four-horse wagon load of poultry and eggs, upset his wagon in a deep mudhole near Taylor Mines and smothered about 200 chickens and lost about 175 dozen eggs. Bad roads was the cause of the accident.

Company H. Attention!

The members of Company H are directed to report at the armory for drill Saturday, April 27, at 8 p. m. The date for encampment has been set for July 26th to August 4th, at Arniston, Ala. Men who anticipate enlisting in the company and who have not had previous military training, must do so not later than April 28, else they will not receive pay for the coming encampment.

C. B. SHOWN, Lieut. Commanding the Company.

Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis, wife of Mr. J. E. Curtis, Rockport, Ky., died last Saturday morning at 5 o'clock of a complication of troubles. After funeral services conducted by Rev. John Casabier at the Baptist Church, Centertown, at 3 o'clock p. m. Saturday, her remains were interred in the Centertown cemetery.

Mrs. Curtis, who had been a member of the Baptist Church for several years, leaves surviving her, a husband, one daughter, Miss Fern, and son, Hayden, besides a host of friends and relatives to mourn her demise.

Failed to Agree.

The jury in the suit of B. F. Ferguson against P. F. Thomas for the alleged alienation of the affections of Ferguson's wife, wherein the plaintiff was claiming $10,000 damages, failed to agree and were dismissed. The jury, as we are informed, stood four for plaintiff and eight for defendant.

SEES MUCH IN HERALD GOOD AND INTERESTING

And Names Some Of It—The Sociological Problems Of the Times.

Hartford, Ky., R. F. N. No. 6, April 18.—EditorsHerald:—In your issue of April 3, the articles which interested me most were these: "The Vital Question," "Is It All Worth While," "This Strenuous Game?" "Unknown Heroes," and the two editorial paragraphs, beginning respectively thus: "It's simply th spoils of office," and "We think a number of Republicans will join us in the prediction," &c.

"The Vital Question" is opportunity, "Is It All Worth While" is thoughtful, "Unknown Heroes" is beautiful and your editorial paragraphs are excellent.

I would say to the author of "Unknown Heroes," while the humble heroes of every-day life are brave, noble and good, yet in the Lexicon of Life you can find no other hero greater than the hero of Justice and Right, who, despite persecution and proscription, and all adverse conditions, has the moral courage to labor with voice and pen in the cause of truth and equity.

I always find something good and interesting in the Hartford Herald. Gentlemen, allow me to suggest that articles with references to historic, biographic, sociologic and educational matters are always good reading for those who are thoughtful and progressive.

And why not, semi-occasionally, grace your pages with some of the principles, program, and philosophy of Socialism, the most "cussed" and discussed subject in the universe?

People are inquiring about it. There is a demand for information relative thereto.

In the April 3d issue of the Herald, I read an article under headlines beginning with "The Bulwark of Human Liberty," and, as I anticipated, it took a fling at "the mob"—the people.

Now, let me say, we have never had majority rule in this country. The Constitution does not grant majority rule, consequently, we have always been under minority rule. The people are either sovereign in ALL things, or, else, NOT sovereign at all.

Whenever and wherever the PEOPLE are not sovereign in ALL things, then and there they do not exercise their paramount authority, and it logically follows that they are suffering from the tyranny of the few—the minority.

Democracy is self-government. Self-government is majority rule. All tyrants, whether monarchic, autocratic or judicial, fear what they call "the mob," "the rabble," i. e., "the common people."

In all ages and climes the oppressors of "the common people," and all those persons having special privileges, by which the few profited to the loss, sorrow and detriment of the many, have stood for THE LAWS, and against majority rule; for the very simple reason that they feared that they would be shorn of their special privileges, or that their class interests would be endangered and put in jeopardy by the rule of the people.

The master and ruling class in all lands have dreaded and hated democracy and majority rule. They

CONVALESCENTS

Those Recovering from Any Severe Illness

After a long wasting illness, convalescents require nourishing food that will not overtax the digestive functions—and in the way of a strength-restoring and vitality-making tonic, we know of nothing that equals Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil).

Vinol creates an appetite, re-establishes good digestion and helps the daily food to make rich blood, form flesh, strong muscles and impart new life and vitality to every organ in the body. We ask those who need a strength and flesh-building tonic restorative to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, with the understanding that if it does not help them we will refund their money without question.

James H. Williams, Hartford, Ky.

are great sticklers for THE LAW, for THE LAW protects THEM in their encroachments on human rights and liberties.

Democratic government rests solely on the rule of the people. Whenever there are constitutions and laws which either cripple or prohibit popular rule and government in the least, then, indeed, we have tyranny of THE MINORITY.

Liberty is never an aggressor. AUTHORITY, vested in few, has always trampled on the rights of the many.

In these United States, to-day, we see the autocratic power of plutocracy wielded in behalf of the money power by a few members of the Republican party, like Aldrich, and not by the ignorant voters in the "G. O. P." W. H. C.

GARDENING HINTS.

Self-popping corn is an interesting new variety, the seed of which is offered this spring. It is the result of a cross between ordinary popcorn and red peppers, generating enough heat within the ear to pop the kernels in the fall.

People living in a sixth-story apartment will find it impracticable to grow pumpkin vines in their window boxes. While the foliage and large blossoms are very effective from the street, the result of a full-grown pumpkin dropping on a passer-by is disconcerting.

The Plymouth Rock eggplant is perhaps more showy, but the Buff Cochon variety is larger and richer in color. We can only repeat our former injunction that the egg plant is ready to pluck as soon as it cackles.

Attempts to evolve a horseless horse radish by grafting the stem of the plant to an automobile tire, have only produced a hollow radish with a strong gasoline taste.—[Chicago Post.

NEW LAW AFFECTING PUBLIC DRINKING CUP

The recently enacted State law prohibiting the common drinking cup in Kentucky will go into effect about May 10.

The law forbids the use of common drinking cups on railroad trains and in railroad stations, hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, steamboats, stores, "or other publicly frequented places." No person or corporation in charge of such places shall permit the use of the drinking cup in common, and warning placards must be posted in conspicuous positions. A violation of the provisions of the act is punishable by a fine of not less than $1 and not more than $10, and each day's violation of any of the provisions of the act is to be considered a separate offense.

The public drinking cup is now recognized as a menacing medium for the transmission of disease. Legislation has been directed against it in various cities and in a number of the States of the Union. Kentucky, in adopting this commendable law, has taken a forward step in the campaign for the prevention of disease. On general principles the common drinking cup had nothing to recommend or justify it. Now that it is known to be an agency for the dissemination of many deadly, dangerous or loathsome maladies, there is no longer any shadow of excuse for its continuance in public places. The effective enforcement of the Kentucky act will be a substantial gain for decency and sanitation.

He Delayed the Game.

An Eastern college graduate applied for work in a Michigan lumber camp. He was told to occupy himself with one end of a cross-cut saw, the other end being in charge of an old and experienced lumberman.

At the end of the second day the young man's strength began to wane. Suddenly the old man stopped the saw a moment.

"Sonny," he said, not unkindly, "I don't mind yer riding on this saw, but if it's jist the same to you, I wish you'd keep yer feet off the ground."

Ragged wounds are painful and cause much annoyance. If not kept clear, they fester and become running sores. BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT is an antiseptic healing remedy for such cases. Apply it at night before going to bed and cover with a cotton cloth bandage. It heals in a few days. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Hartford Drug Co., Hartford, Ky., Donovan & Co., Beaver Dam, Kentucky.

The Herald's Special Selections.
PLAY FOR PLAY.

The eldest was John; he elected To play the trombone in the band. He said it had been much neglected And this would enhance the demand.

So John learned the trombone and started A worthy position to seek— The last that was heard of his case 'twas averred He was earning eight dollars a week.

The second was Joe; he predicted The bassoon would come into its own.

So Joe his poor family family afflicted With horrible sounds like a groan.

Then off for the West he departed To show to the world his technique— He wrote from Seattle: "They treat us like cattle. I'm getting six dollars a week!"

The third son was Frank; he debated The pros and the cons quite a while.

But chose the oboe, much elated, And learned, too, to play in fine style.

Then, eager for fame and for fortune, Forth fared he, with high mantling cheek— This word came from Bangor: "Pray pardon my anger, I'm making five dollars a week!"

The last son was Tom; though the latest To make his appearance on earth, Of all he was most up-to-date.

And showed, too, he knew his own worth. "No trombones or bassoons or oboes!" He thundered: "Away with them all!"

And Tom now makes yearly ten thousand or nearly. For he is the one who PLAYS BALL.

Resolutions on the Death of Mr. Dudley Ford.

At a recent meeting of the Ohio County Union, American Society of Equity, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

1. Resolved, That the Ohio County members of the American Society of Equity have learned with profound sorrow of the death of their brother and co-worker, Mr. Dudley Ford, which occurred since our last regular meeting.

2. Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Ford this Union has lost one of its most valuable and untiring workers, and one who had filled the position of county treasurer for many years in a most acceptable manner, and who had also done valuable work as a member of the finance committee, and as grader for the Hartford Warehouse. In every position in connection with this organization, we found him to be true, honest, capable, and generous in his dealings with his brethren and with his fellowman, and his advice and counsel will be greatly missed by our organization.

3. Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved family our sincere sympathies in their great loss, and that a copy of these resolutions be furnished them, and published in the county papers.

TWELVE YEARS ADDED TO THE AVERAGE LIFE

The astounding and gratifying fact is claimed that in the last half century an average of 12 years has been added to the period of human life. Since the first actual records were taken in New York City in the middle sixties, the rate of mortality has been reduced from 35 deaths in each 1,000 inhabitants to about 15 or 16. This reduction has resulted from the control of infectious diseases. The saving thus made relates only to the period of life under 50 years. There is no saving knowledge regarding the organic diseases of advancing years, which afflict especially these who have been active in affairs, and who are taxed with large responsibilities. Dr. William H. Welch, in an address at the forty-third anniversary of the Presbyterian Hospital in New York recently, in referring to the close alliance between the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Presbyterian Hospital, said he believed that such relationship would be a source of great scientific education not only in the nursing and treatment of those afflicted, but also in preventing the diseases which are so fatal in their effects, and thus would continue to increase the average of human existence.—[Christian Herald.

THE RULES OF POKER AS APPLIED TO "THE TRADE"

They are telling a story this season of a battle of brains between the clever advertiser and the clever customer. It happened in a local shoe store and we are printing it just to beat some trade paper to it.

The local shoe store aforementioned has been conducting a bargain sale in men's shoes. In each pair of shoes in the show window there are three new $1 bills and the sign reads: "Three of a kind take one pair."

The $3 shoes have been going rapidly. Recently, however, a big young man entered the store and asked: "Do you sell these shoes according to poker rules, as advertised?"

"Yes, sir," answered the clerk, who had played a bit himself. "Good. I wear a No. 9. Wrap me up two pair of them."

He received the shoes and handed over $3.

"Excuse me," said the clerk. "These shoes come to $6. You took two pair."

"That's all right," said the young man, "but three of a kind beat two pairs."

"I know that," responded the clerk, promptly, "but three of a kind don't beat four nines." The customer paid.—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE GRAPHIC STORY OF A MAN'S WASTED LIFE

The other day a man was overheard soliloquizing. He was saying something like this: "Not long ago I visited a cemetery and saw a tall and costly monument glittering in the sunlight. I knew the man who sleeps beneath. I wonder if in the world beyond the stars he found happiness. He certainly did not, this side of the meridian. He gave his strength in the chase for gold. His schemes by day and his dreams by night were of how he could increase his harvest. He never saw the sorrowful face of the widow in want nor heard the plaintive cry of hunger. The birds sang gaily in the tree-tops, innocent flowers wafted their perfumes to him and the sunlight danced across his path, but he heard nothing. The only music that he heard was the jingle of the gold as it dropped into his coffers. In the flush of his conquest and power he was stricken down, and now sleeps on the hill with the poorest. He left behind no legacy of kindly deeds, no cherished words of hope, no aching heart for a friend who has gone. His gold has built for him a monument of cold and pulseless granite that defies the moans of the wind, as his heart defied the sobs of humanity. In the democracy of the grave there is no caste, and I say that this man wasted his life as much as the rum-soaked pauper who sleeps in the potter's field, a stone's throw away."

Great Weekly at a Low Price. The Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer, a twelve-page paper recently transformed into the size and appearance of a daily, will be furnished in connection with the Hartford Herald at only $1.35 for the two papers. This price stands good on renewals for The Herald. The Weekly Enquirer is an ideal newspaper, containing a big variety of reading and is especially suited to the farming classes. It is Democratic and progressive. This is certainly a low price for a lot of good reading.

AND IT WAS "JUST LIKE A LETTER FROM HOME"

For once in her life Miss Bernice Grady has all the news from home. She is a clerk in the Department of Commerce and Labor at Washington. In a letter to her father, John H. Grady, 32 Leavitt street, she said he was a "stingy writer."

Pa Grady bought a writing tablet of 160 pages, running 20 lines to a page. He began a letter to his daughter. He wrote all he knew about home, all he could get from the neighbors, the gossip down town, the latest thing in church life, the club calendar, the weather, farming news, suburban notes, what the children were doing in school, a dash of local politics, the wind-up of the Carlo-Max dog feud, the weekly shoe shipments and the spring fashions for men.

He wrote 20,000 words in the letter. Sixteen cents' worth of postage stamps took the letter to Miss Grady. The girl sent back a blank envelope, followed by this note: "Revenge is sweet. How do you like it? If I ever get time I'll answer that essay of yours."—[Brockton (Mass.) Dispatch.

LAND WHERE NO WOMAN ENTERS

Inhabited By Ten Thousand
and Men.

THE REPUBLIC OF MT. ATHOS

Is a Strange Community Of Ancient Origin, Peopled
By the Monks.

FINE PLACE FOR BIBLE STUDY

There is a womanless republic on a peninsula south of Macedonia in Greece where 10,000 men live, studying and praying constantly, and where policemen guard the coast to keep out women pilgrims and other persons who would make undesirable guests. Prof. Casper Rene Gregory, theologian of the University of Leipzig, student of Biblical manuscripts, who located in Kansas City recently at the Fine Arts Institute, told of this most unique of all countries.

The place is Mt. Athos, classic peninsula of Akte, the easternmost of three little peninsulas below Macedonia. Prof. Gregory explained. "It is called Mt. of the Twenty Monasteries, and was used in ancient times as a signaling station to Asia Minor. It is a real republic. There are 10,000 monks there, who govern themselves without interference from Turkey or any other country. There are, however, no Government buildings, no President or other officeholders.

"The only police force is composed of men who patrol the coast to keep out women and men who have no permit to enter this most exclusive of countries. Only those who have a letter of permission from the Greek Patriarch in Constantinople are allowed to enter the holy place. The holder of the letter must present it in Karges, the village capital of the peninsula."

Some reports have it, Prof. Gregory said, that this republic was formed in the ninth century. It is said that the foot of a woman has not touched the soil of the place for centuries. All the monks represent the Greek Catholic Church. They work the soil some, but live chiefly upon contributions from pilgrims. Probably the greatest collection of Biblical manuscripts is in the monasteries of this republic.

"It is the most interesting place in the world for the student of the Bible," the doctor said. "I have been there three times already and I will never tire of going. There are in the monasteries thousands of Greek manuscripts, and hundreds of them are connected with the New Testament. Hundreds of students have studied many of these manuscripts very carefully, but there are other manuscripts that have not yet been read carefully. It may be that great discoveries, valuable to the Bible scientists, will emanate yet from this great storehouse of manuscripts."

WHAT PUZZLED HIM WAS A VERY SIMPLE MATTER

The proprietor of a tanyard was anxious to fix a suitable sign to his premises. Finally a happy thought struck him. He bored a hole through the door post and stuck a calf's tail into it, with the tufted end outside.

After a while he saw a solemn-faced man standing near the hole looting at the sign. The tanner watched him a minute and then stepped out and addressed him.

"Good morning, sir," he said. "Good morning," said the other, without taking his eyes off the sign.

"Do you want to buy leather?" asked the tanner.

"No."

"Perhaps you've got some hides to sell?"

"No."

"Are you a farmer?"

"No."

"What are you, then?"

"I'm a philosopher. I've been standing here for nearly an hour trying to find out how that calf got through that hole."

THE ORDINARY MAN GETS A LITTLE INFORMATION

The Ordinary Man walked into a florist's shop, and, pointing to a beautiful flowering plant, asked its price.

"That duodecimum floratum?" asked the florist, as-nearly as the Ordinary Man understood him. "It's worth a dollar."

He dropped in at the physician's office and requested that gentleman to tell what was the matter with him.

"Oh, you've just got a slight manifestation of nasopharyngeal combolmerus," the doctor said, or words to that apparent effect.

The Ordinary Man stopped to look at an automobile, and the agent said:

"You see the differential is set at a tangent to the assimilator, and that brings the obloid parrelling chute in diametric connection with the swiveling trunnion," as nearly as the Ordinary Man caught the remark.

The Ordinary Man consulted his lawyer:

"We will appeal to have the decision reversed," declared the attorney, "on the grounds of lex judicium non contendere posse comitatus—at least that is what the Ordinary Man gathered.

So he became so bewildered over the way things were told to Ordinary People that he was careless when he crossed the street and was run down by an automobile being demonstrated by the agent, and was picked up and carried into the doctor's office and called the lawyer to make his will, and later the florist got an order.

And, to pursue him still further, they carved on his monument: "Requiescat in pace."

BILLSVILLE ITEMS

Billsville is not a big town, numerically nor geographically, but it is the most important place in the world to one hundred and eighty-three people, not counting Parson Broadstream nor the book agent who has been hanging around here all winter. Billsville has another name once, back before the war. My uncle Bill was the original settler here and he had a still house and in this way the place became known as Bill's Still. But when the internal revenue tax went on spirits, uncle Bill wanted neither to pay the tax or stop his still, so he had the name changed to Billsville.

Health is very good except Parson Broadstream has nightmares. School is progressing nicely under Prof. Snow, who is teaching some of the higher branches, including baseball.

Our physician, Dr. Fox, is a most wretched man. He has been trying to fish for the past week, but has been repeatedly disturbed by sick callers.

Parson Broadstream preached a powerful sermon Sunday upon the evils of the recall. The Parson has a five-year's contract with his congregation.

My uncle Bill's son, who inherited his father's still and temper, took a shot at a revenue office Tuesday.

The Billsville postoffice was inspected Friday and among some old papers the Inspector found my uncle's will bequeathing the still to me. I always did believe that some day the stream of good luck would run my way.

Jealousy is a colorless, odorless, fruitless flower that seems to bloom in too many men's hearts. I was telling Postmaster Van Horn this morning that I always did like Dr. Fox, but better than ever now, since yesterday, when he told me that we were such good friends that he was going to do my family practice, including surgery, for nothing hereafter. "Ahem," said Van Horn, "the doctor has heard of the finding of your uncle Bill's will."

Now Doc. does like a drink, but I consider this a mean thrust.

I really feel sorry for uncle Bill's son, for in addition to losing the still, he has measles and twins at his house.

It is a law at Billsville that no citizen may tell a lie and live—that is, live in Billsville. This principle was put to severe test last week. A temperance apostle dropped into town and of course called first upon Parson Broadstream. "Nothing doing here in your line," said the Parson. "Not a drop of whiskey has been drunk in this town for the past nine years." The temperance man went on his way, and when the Parson was called upon to vindicate the law of veracity obtaining in Billsville, swore that not a drop of real whiskey had been made at the still since old man Bill died nine years ago.

Dr. Fox told me this morning that he had reconsidered his proposition to do my family practice free, as he was afraid such partiality might hurt his practice. A few minutes later I noticed in the Spruceport Journal that my uncle Bill's will had been declared barred by limitation in the county court. ALMARINE WINKLES.

The Danger After Grip

Lies often in a run-down system. Weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys, often follow an attack of this wretched disease. The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the glorious tonic, blood purifier and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore to health and good spirits after an attack of grip. If suffering, try them. Only 50 cents. NEW FISH LAW WILL BE ENFORCED IN BARREN

Glasgow, Ky., April 18.—The citizens of this section are delighted over the new fish law, which passed the last Legislature, including a heavy penalty for the use of set-nets in Kentucky waters and also making it a felony, punishable by a term in the penitentiary, for any one to use dynamite in any stream or pond in Kentucky.

The people of Southern Kentucky have suffered much from these violators of the law who have operated extensively in Cumberland, Barren and Green rivers, often-times killing hundreds of small fish and after selecting the larger ones, leave the dead ones on the banks of the rivers. Not stopping at this, they sometimes visit private ponds in the absence of the owners and in some instances have practically destroyed all the fish in the ponds.

The report of the dynamite save been heard and numerous arrests have been made, but nine cases out of ten go unpunished for the lack of proof of the guilty ones. Encouraged by the new law, the citizens are determined to put a stop to their work and private parties residing along the river have been asked to keep a watch on the streams.

MRS. EDDY'S FORMER HOME
TO BE SOLD FOR TAXES

Concord, N. H., April 18.—Because of unpaid taxes, Pleasant View, the Concord home of Mrs. Baker G. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science denomination, is advertised to be sold on May 23d next. Mrs. Eddy lived many years at Pleasant View, and it was there that many of her books were written.

The proposed sale of the property comes about because of the refusal of Henry M. Baker, one of the executors of Mrs. Eddy's estate, to pay the taxes. The levy amounts to $417, and this sum is considered by Mr. Baker to be excessive.

Pleasant View is an estate of many acres on Pleasant street, some distance out from the center of the city.

Almost a Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. ## TALE OF TRAGIC INTEREST TOLD

By Survivors of the Ill-Fated Titanic.

MOMENTS OF DIREST PERIL

That Tried the Souls and Threatened the Sanity of Partic pants.

GREATEST HORROR OF AGES

The Cunard liner Carpathia, a ship of gloom and sorrow, came into New York Thursday, with first news direct from the great White Star liner Titanic, which sank off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland early on Monday morning of last week.

The great liner went down with her hand playing, taking with her to death all but 745 of her human cargo of 2,340 souls.

To this awful list six persons were added. One died in the lifeboat when it put off from the liner's side, and five subsequently succumbed on the rescue ship Carpathia. The total death list as brought to port by the Carpathia is 1,601.

Survivors in the lifeboats huddled in the darkness at a safe distance from the stricken ship and saw her go down. As to the scene on board when the liner struck, accounts disagree widely. Some maintain that a comparative calm prevailed; others say that wild disorder broke out and that there was a maniacal struggle for the lifeboats. That the liner struck an iceberg, as reported by wireless, was confirmed by all.

Ripped from stem to engine room by the great mass of ice she struck amidships, the Titanic's side was laid open as if by a gigantic can-opener. She quickly listed to starboard, and a shower of ice fell onto the fore-castle deck. Shortly before she sank, she broke in two abaft the engine room, and as she disappeared beneath the water, the expulsion of air caused two explosions, which were plainly heard by the survivors adrift. A moment more and the Titanic had gone to her doom with the fated hundreds grouped on the afterdeck. To the survivors they were visible to the last, and their cries and moans were pitiable.

E. Z. Taylor, of Philadelphia, one of the survivors, jumped into the sea just three minutes before the boat sank. He told a graphic story as he came from the Carpathia.

"I was eating when the boat struck the iceberg," he said. "There was an awful shock that made the boat tremble from stem to stern. I did not realize for some time what had happened. No one seemed to know the extent of the accident. We were told that an iceberg had been struck by the ship. I felt the boat rise, and it seemed to me that she was riding over the ice. I ran out on deck, and then I could see ice. It was a veritable sea of ice, and the boat was rocking over it. I should say that parts of the iceberg were eighty feet high, but it had been broken into sections, probably by our ship.

"I jumped into the ocean, and was picked up by one of the boats. I never expected to see land again. I waited on board the boat until the lights went out. It seemed to me that the discipline on board was wonderful."

Col. Archibald Gracie, U. S. A., the last man saved, went down with the vessel, but was picked up. Col. Gracie told a remarkable story of personal hardship, and denied emphatically the reports that there had been any panic on board. He praised in the highest terms the behavior of both the passengers and crew, and paid a high tribute to the heroism of the women passengers.

"Mrs. Isador Straus," he said, "went to her death because she would not desert her husband. Although he pleaded with her to take her place in the boat, she steadfastly refused, and when the ship set at the head, the two were engulfed by the wave that swept her." Col. Gracie told of how he was driven to the topmost deck, when the ship settled, and was the sole survivor after the wave that swept her just before her final plunge, had passed.

"I jumped with the wave," said he, "just as I often have jumped with the breakers at the seashore. By great good fortune I managed to grasp the brass railing on the deck above, and I hung on by might and main. When the ship plunged down, I was forced to let go, and I was swirled around and around for what seemed to me an interminable time. Eventually I came to the surface, to find the sea a mass of tangled wreckage.

"Luckily I was unhurt, and casting about, managed to seize a wooden grating floating near by. When I had recovered my breath, I discovered a larger canvass and cork life raft which had floated up. A man, whose name I did not learn, was struggling toward it from some wreckage to which he had clung. I cast off and helped him to get onto the raft, and we then began the work of rescuing those who had jumped into the sea and were floundering in the water.

"When dawn broke there were thirty of us on the raft, standing knee deep in the icy water, and afraid to move, lest the craft be overturned. Several unfortunate, benumbed and half-dead, besought us to save them, and one or two made an effort to reach us, but we had to warn them away. Had we made any effort to save them, we all might have perished."

Col. Gracie denied with emphasis that any men were fired upon, and declared that only once was a revolver discharged.

"This was for the purpose of intimidating some steerage passengers," he said, "who had tumbled into a boat before it was prepared for launching. This shot was fired in the air, and when the foreigners were told that the next would be directed at them, they promptly returned to the deck. There was no confusion and no panic."

Contrary to the general expectation, there was no jarring impact when the vessel struck, according to the army officer. He was in his berth when the vessel smashed into the submerged portion of the berg, and was aroused by the jar. He looked at his watch, he said, and found it was just midnight. The ship sank with him at 2:22 a. m., for his watch stopped at that hour.

"Before I retired," said Col. Gracie, "I had a long chat with Charles H. Hayes, president of the Grand Trunk railroad. One of the last things Mr. Hayes said was this:

"The White Star, the Cunard and the Hamburg-American lines are devoting their attention and ingenuity in vying with each other to attain the supremacy in luxurious ships and in making speed records. The time will soon come when this will be checked by some appalling disaster."

"Poor fellow, a few hours later he was dead."

"The conduct of Col. John Jacob Astor was deserving of the highest praise," Col. Gracie declared. "The millionaire New Yorker," he said, "devoted all his energies to saving his young bride, Miss Force, of New York, who was in delicate health.

"Col. Astor helped us in our efforts to get her into the boat and as she took her place Col. Astor requested permission of the second officer to go with her for her own protection.

"No, sir," replied the officer. "Not a man shall go on a boat until the women are all off." Col. Astor then inquired the number of the boat, which was being lowered away, and turned to the work of clearing the other boats and in reassuring the frightened and nervous women.

"By this time the ship began to list frightfully to port. This became so dangerous that the second officer ordered everyone to rush to starboard. This we did, and we found the crew trying to get a boat off in that quarter."

Col. Gracie said that, despite the warnings of icebergs, no slowing down of speed was ordered by the commander of the Titanic. There were other warnings, too, he said. "In the 14th," he said, "the ship's run was 546 miles, and we were told that the next twenty-four would see a better record posted. No diminution of speed was indicated in the run and the engines kept up their steady running. When Sunday evening came we all noticed he increased cold, which gave him warning that the ship was in close proximity to icebergs or ice fields.

"When the vessel struck," he continued, "the passengers were so little alarmed that they joked over the matter. The few that appeared on deck early had taken their time to dress properly and there was not the slightest indication of panic. Some of the fragments of ice had fallen on the deck and these were locked up and passed around by some of the facetious ones, who offered them as mementoes of the occasion. On the port side a glance over the side failed to show any evidence of damage, and the vessel seemed to be on an even keel. A few minutes later the officers ordered men and women to don life preservers."

One of the last women seen by Col. Gracie, he said, was Miss Evans, of New York, who virtually refused to be rescued, because, according to the army officer, "she had been told by a fortune teller in London that she would meet her death on the water."

The two hundred and more steerage passengers did not leave the ship until 1 o'clock. They were in a sad condition. The women were without wraps and the few men there wore but very little clothing. A poor Syrian woman, who said she was Mrs. Habush, bound for Youngstown, O., carried in her arms a 6-year-old baby girl. The child wore only a light calico dress, was barefooted and barelegged. This woman had lost her husband and three brothers. "I lost four of my men folks," she cried.

Among those who landed from the Carpathia were Washington Dodge, City Assessor of San Francisco, and his wife and son, Washington, Jr., who had been rescued from the Titanic.

"It was exactly twenty minutes to 12 and nearly everybody was asleep," said Mr. Dodge. "I was in my berth and my wife and son had just got in theirs. When the impact came, we were thrown to the deck. The night was fine and there had been no fog to obscure the iceberg, which the boat seemed to strike head-on toward the starboard quarter. The lower decks were immediately covered with water and floating ice. For a little while the ship's officers seemed to have the situation well in hand, but when the cold water and ice began to strike the passengers, the excitement began. I heard several shots but did not know where they came from.

"When I saw the ship was sinking I ran back to the cabin, where I had left my wife and child, and you can imagine my alarm when I found they had gone. I searched all over the saloon deck for them and just as I reached deck, they were getting ready to lower a boat. They called for women to fill the three seats left, but there were no women on that deck and a man shoved me into the boat and I gave my wife and son up for lost. I did not know they had been rescued until we met later on the deck of the Carpathia."

Many of the women, he said, were scantily clad and all were suffering from the cold. Four died on the Carpathia as a result of the exposure.

Of all the heroes who went to their death when the Titanic dived to its ocean grave, none, in the opinion of Miss Hilda Stater, a passenger in the last boat to put off, deserved greater credit than the members of the vessel's orchestra.

According to Miss Stater, the orchestra played until the last. When the vessel took its final plunge, the strains of a lively air mingled gressomely with the cries of those who realized that they were face to face with death.

"It was terrible," said Miss Stater, who had come from her home in England to visit a brother, an architect in New York. "From the moment the vessel struck, or as soon as the members of the orchestra could be collected, there was a steady round of lively airs. It did much to keep up the spirits of every one and probably served as much as the efforts of the officers to prevent panic."

When the ship struck the iceberg Miss Stater went on deck. She was ordered to go back to bed, which she did, on being assured there was no danger. A half hour later she heard confusion on deck and heard some one cry, "Order everyone to don a life belt." Running on deck after dressing again, Miss Stater was ordered to the boat deck aloft.

"When I got there," she said, "I found an indescribable scene. A number of the steerage men passengers had attempted to seize one of the boats and there was a brisk revolver fire and many men fell under it. The prompt and drastic action of the officers restored order.

"There were many touching scenes as the boats put off. I saw Col. John Jacob Astor hand his young wife into a boat tenderly and then ask an officer whether he might also go. When permission was refused, he stepped back and coolly took out his cigarette case. "Good-bye, dearie," he called, as he lighted a cigarette and leaned over the rail. "I'll join you later." Another man, a Frenchman, I think, approached one of the boats about to be lowered. He had with him two beautiful little boys. An officer waved him back sternly. "Bless you," he said, "I don't want to go, but for God's sake take the boys. Their mother is waiting for them in New York." The boys were taken aboard."

Mrs. Edgar J. Meyer, of New York, said: "It was a clear and starlit night. When the ship struck we were in our cabin. My husband went out on the deck to see what was the trouble. He came down and said we had hit an iceberg—but that it did not amount to much. I said I was nervous. We went on deck for a walk. More people said the accident was of no importance. It would only delay our arrival. I was afraid and made my husband promise if there was trouble, he would not make me leave him. We walked around the deck a while. An officer came up and cried: "All women into the lifeboats." My husband and I discussed it with each other and the officer said, "You must obey orders." We went down into the cabin and we decided, on account of our baby, to part. He helped me put on warm things, I got into a boat, but there were no sailors aboard. We called to the ship that there were no men in the boat.

"They sent a sailor down. An English girl and I rowed for four hours and a half. Then we were picked up at 6 o'clock in the morning. We were well away from the steamer when it went down, but we heard the screams of the people left on the boat. There were about seventy of us widows on the Carpathia and all were wonderfully brave.

"The officers of the Titanic acted wonderfully. A steward belonging to a neighboring cabin was asked, 'Why don't you get a life preserver.' He replied, 'I don't think there will be enough to go around, mum.'"

Mrs. K. T. Andrews, of Hudson, N. Y., a first-class passenger on the Titanic, said:

"When our boat got away from the Titanic there was an explosion and the Titanic seemed to break in two. Then she sank, bow first. Just before this I saw Mr. Astor, Mr. Thayer and Mr. Case standing on deck. They were smiling, and as we went off, they waved their hands."

ANTHRACITE MINERS REACH AN AGREEMENT

New York, April 22.—The sub-committee representing the anthracite miners and the operators conferred here to-day for what is expected to be the final session, as a settlement of the demands of the miners has, it is understood, already been virtually reached.

The basis of settlement is said to be a 5 per cent. increase in wages, and an indirect recognition of the union. There will be no acceptance of the check-off system.

The whole committee of operators and miners will meet later to act on the report of the sub-committee.
